

CORRUPTION
RESEARCH CENTER
BUDAPEST

Internship programme

The aims of the Corruption Research Center Budapest (CRCB) are to systematically explore the causes, characteristics, and consequences of low quality of government, corruption, and regulatory failure using an inter-disciplinary approach. The CRCB also aims to help citizens to hold governments accountable through the use of robust evidence. For these, CRCB is looking for trainees from April 15th 2019.

Job description:

- 10-15 working hours a week
- Participation in current research
- Data collection, database building and data verification
- Writing analysis on various topics related to corruption (sectoral analysis, mathematical-statistical analysis of overpricing, analysis of inverse corruption indicators, political relations and corruption in Hungary, causality of transparency of local governments and so on.)

Requirements:

- Completed at least 1 year of studies in Economics or in other Social Sciences
- Advanced communication and writing skills in English
- Knowledge of STATA or R

Advantages:

- Flexible working hours
- Databases built and owned by CRCB can be used to prepare theses, Hungarian TDK studies or doctoral theses.

Applications should be sent to info@crCb.eu until April 8, 2019. Please attach your CV.

For more information our research, please visit our website: www.crcb.eu